Sky Conditions: No clouds, all stars visible.

[illegible] Fair. Bare time after [illegible] minutes, my daughter & her mate sighted a "red object" in the sky at 10° elevation northwest from the front of the country [illegible]. The object was stationary for "about a minute" then [illegible] slowly from 10° elevation to 40° elevation on a southerly course. The object stopped, then accelerated, disappearing in the southeast.

My husband's description — "It had a red light in front (intensity equal to a street light viewed from 150' with red [illegible] on it)." "A pulsating bright white light in the center and a red light at the rear with such a blue streamers coming off the rear." ([illegible]) "There was a thin saucer shaped barely visible line connecting the three lights" top & bottom. The "legs" "dimly lit" were hanging from the bottom. The object was "shaped like a full moon." To the time in sight estimated at 1½ minutes. [illegible] At the same time I stood in the [illegible], the object definitely was not a meteor."

(I went to the scene with my [illegible] in 4-12 to get a clear [illegible] at the angles and estimate times)
