By May of 1947, the enlisted strength had averaged 198 of whom 103 were maintenance personnel. Available aircraft have flown 461 hours hauling 873 passengers and 193,652 pounds of freight.

The 1st Air Transport Unit from activation to June 1947, a mere 11 months, has flown 3,689 hours, hauling 8,455 passengers 5,694,447 passenger miles, and 3,139,816 pounds of freight ton miles without major or minor aircraft accidents. Such is the record of the "Green Hornet Air Lines" of the 8th Air Force, Strategic Air Command.

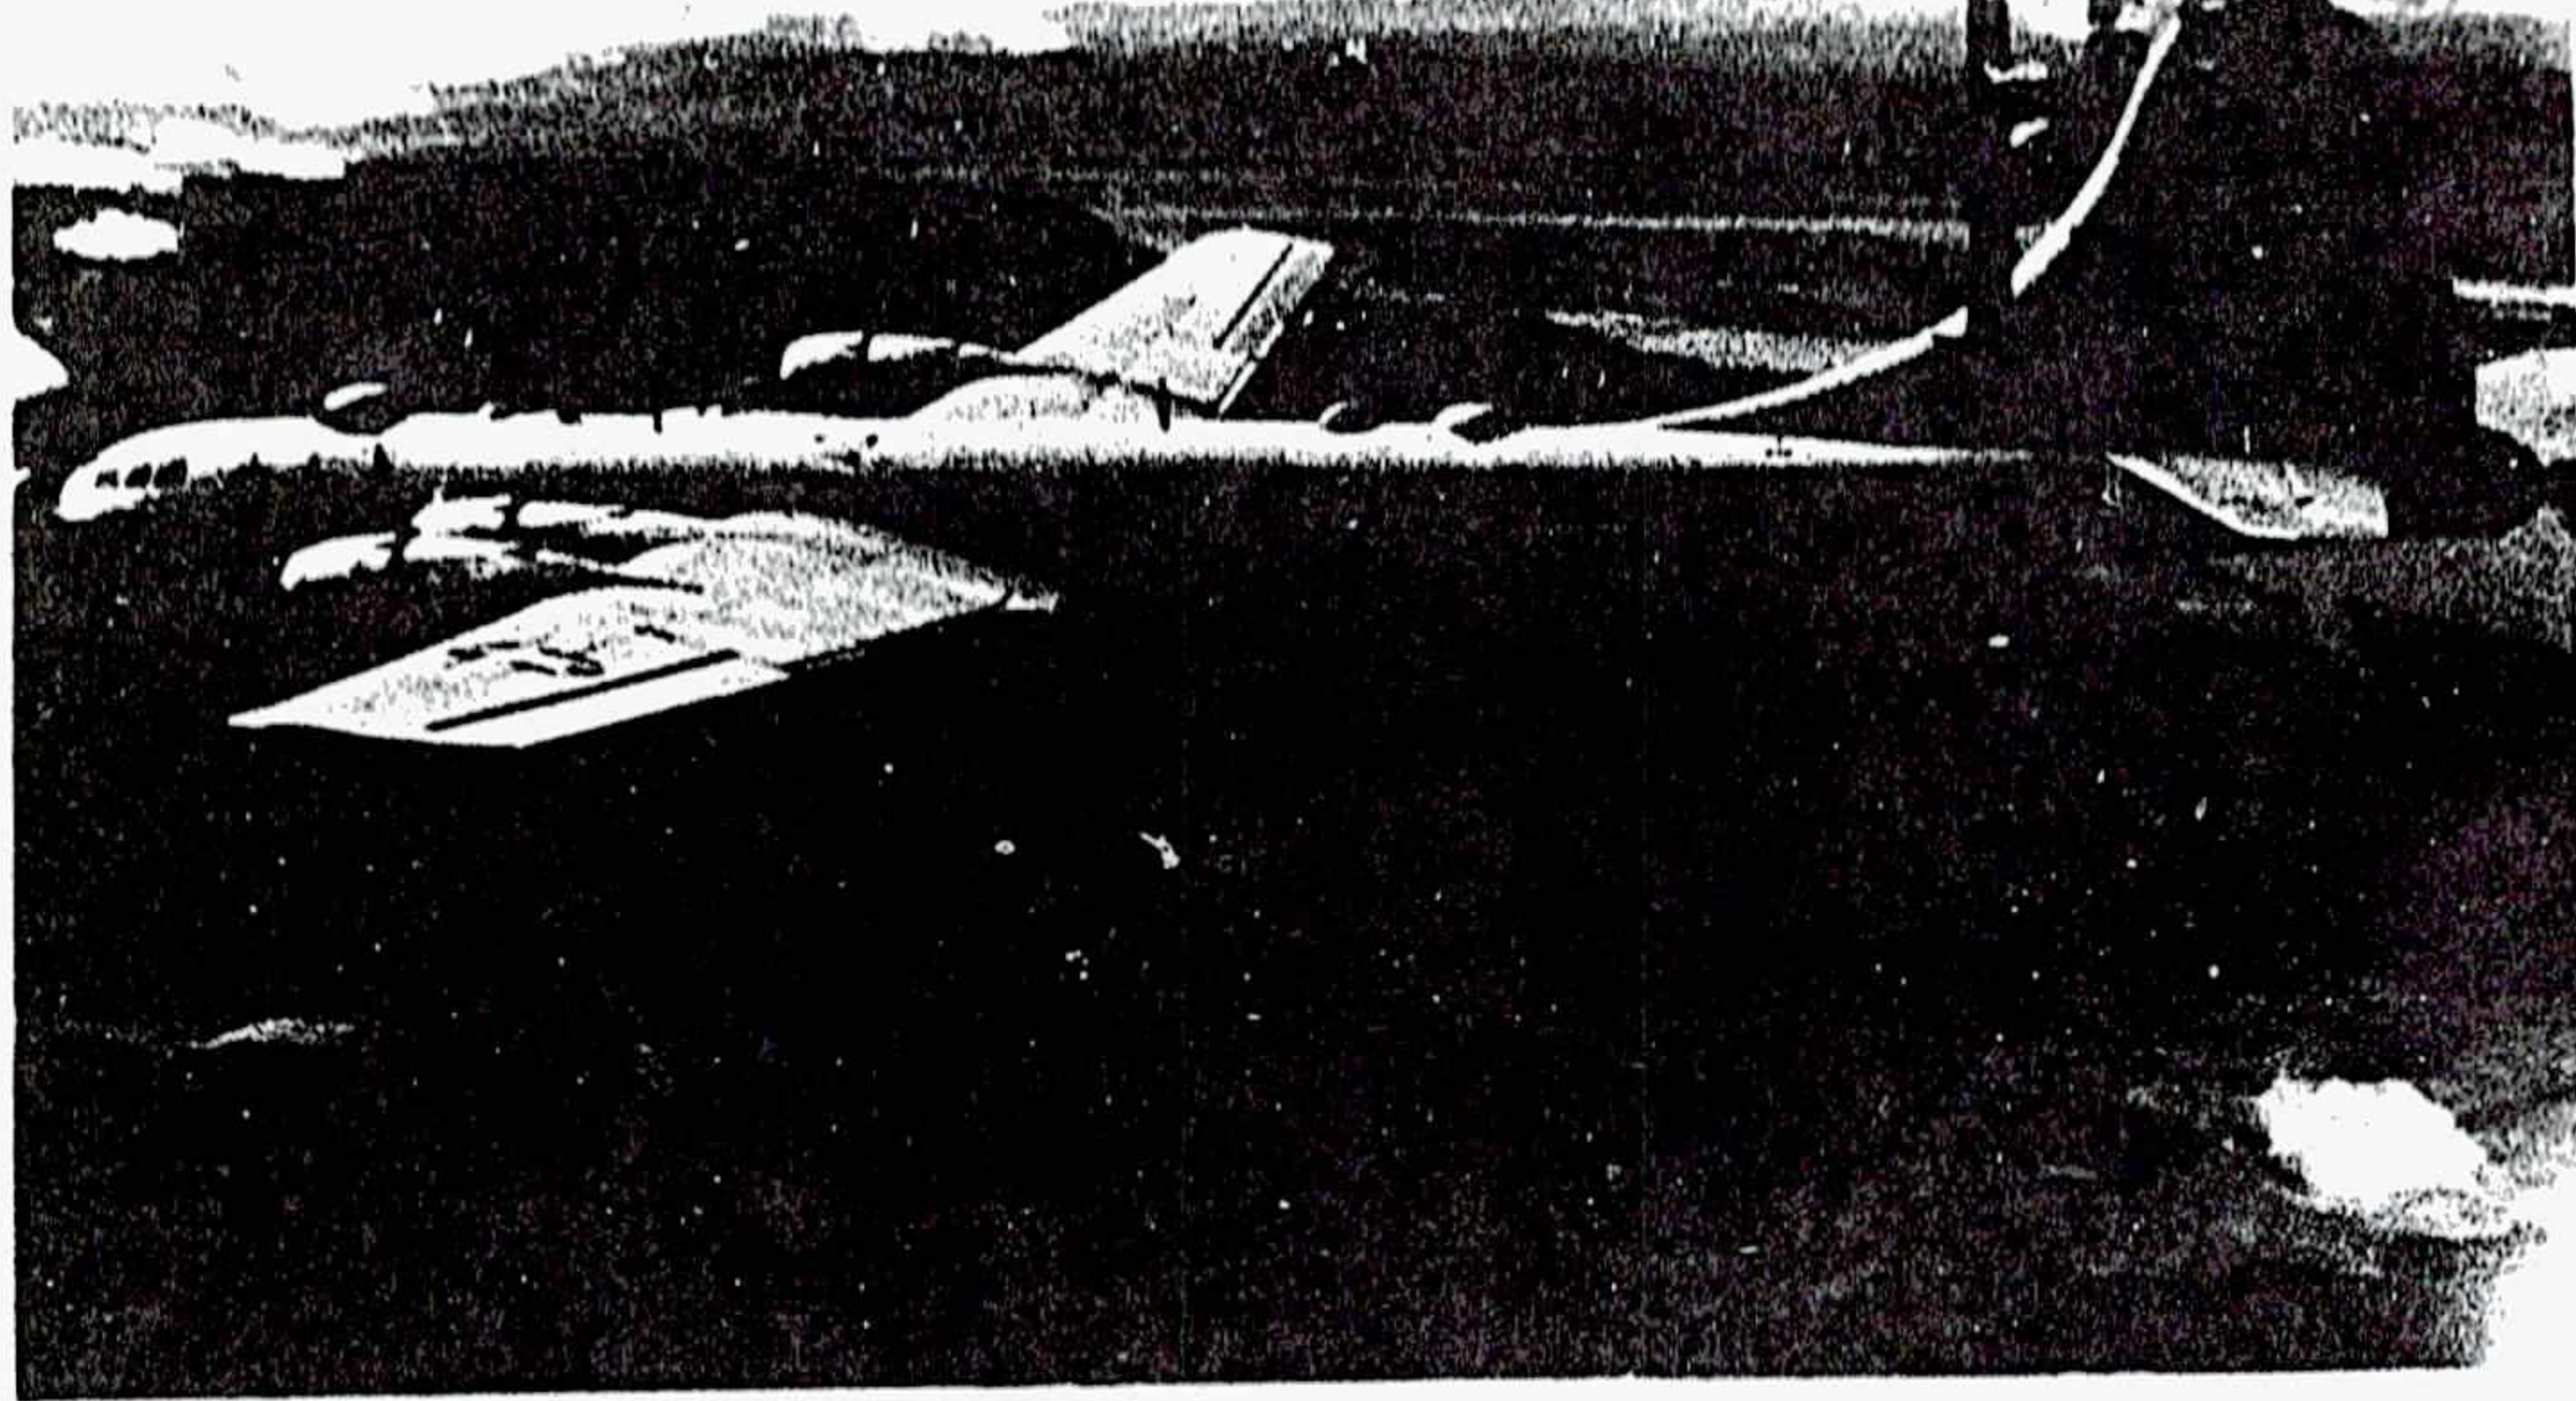

The unit, now operating it's 10 C-54 "Skymaster type" aircraft from Fort Worth Air Field under the command of Lt. Colonel Ray Martin of Fort Worth, is justly proud of its past record.

Forces Training Program in the United States.

Major General Clements McMullen, Chief of Staff, SAC, complimented Fort Worth Army Air Field Enlisted Personnel, Tuesday, 24 June 1947, for their "high standards of military courtesy and discipline".

General McMullen was so impressed with the courtesy and saluting at Fort Worth Army Air Field on a recent inspection trip, that he wrote SAC Commanding Officers inviting them to visit Fort Worth Army Air Field to observe first hand the "spit and polish".

One visiting officer was quoted as saying, "I received more salutes at Fort Worth Army Air Field in two hours than I did in an entire week at my home station".

During June 1947, there was quite a lot of excitement sweeping the country regarding the flying saucers, discs or whatever the name for them might be. It has had the entire countryside in an up-roar as to just what they might be. The A-2 Division has had its hands full answering telephone calls assuring people that it is just an illusion.

Examining reports on the 30th of June 1947 that persons in various northern and northwestern sections of the country have seen disc-like objects flying across the country at supersonic speed, Colonel Alfred F. Kalberer, Intelligence Officer of the Eighth Air Force A-2 Division, concluded that "it may be true, but I doubt it".

General Ramey thought it likely that the persons making the reports "have been seeing heat waves".

"Nine planes aren't likely to be doing formation flying at 1,200 miles per hour," the General stated.

Colonel Kalberer admitted that a disc or saucer-like shape for a supersonic craft "is the ideal form for slicing through the wall of compressibility"--the speed of sound calculated at 773 miles per hour at sea-level.

Colonel Kalberer stated that it does not stand to reason that any unannounced enemy of the United States anywhere in the world would be sending such experimental craft over this country on trial flights. That would be tipping us off entirely too easily.

HEADQUARTERS STRATEGIC AIR COMMAND

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE

WASHINGTON 20, D. C.

10 September 1948

Major General Roger M. Ramey
Commanding, Eighth Air Force
Carswell Air Force Base
Fort Worth, Texas

Dear Rog:

Yesterday Lindbergh was in my office and we were discussing the 509th Bomb Wing. As you know he went to Labrador with one of the squadrons.

Lindbergh states that the commanding officer of the squadron with whom he went was an excellent flyer and had an excellent crew on his airplane. On the other hand, he thought that maintenance in the squadron and throughout the entire wing was very poor. He stated that aircraft were dirty and had material and equipment piled all over them and that mechanically he thought they were in poor condition. He also states that he thinks the technique of flying of the major crews of the 509th is very poor. One of the suggestions which came up in our conference was that we require each of the aircraft commanders to fly each month in a T-6, or other small type airplane, in order that they might perfect their technique in making landings. It appeared to him that the case at Goose Bay where the pilot overshot the runway was just poor technique and it is his opinion that this could be materially improved if they had the opportunity to make landings in a small airplane. He made this suggestion as a result of his own experience in flying. I think it to be a good idea myself and suggest that we assign two T-6's to the group and require both the pilots and co-pilots of our crews to make at least ten landings each month in a T-6.

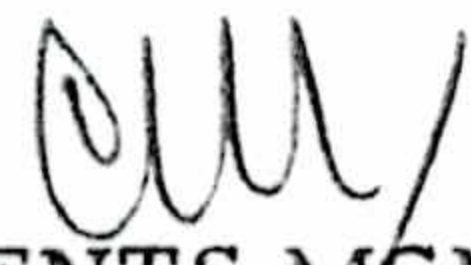

Lindbergh thinks that the people who were in Goose Bay were overworked. He feels that they made more missions than they could completely absorb. He is most concerned with the overall proficiency of the crews which he has seen. He thinks that they are far below the capability of the average commercial liner but that the importance of their mission warrants that they be more competent. Maybe the pilot, co-pilot and navigator of atomic bomb crews should receive one step promotions. Do you think this would be a good idea?

Sammy Anderson just returned from a visit to the 509th. He reports that Ryan stated that he was overworked and did not have the capability to carry out the requirements which were placed upon him. It seems to me that we better start getting rid of commanders who are overworked. The 31 August personnel report for the 509th indicates that it has 368 officers and 3,359 enlisted men assigned, exclusive of those assigned to the 33d Fighter Wing and its subordinate units. This is a total of 3,727 people to handle 31 airplanes, or a total of about 120 people per airplane. If a B-29 was shredded, 120 people per airplane could practically eat it in the period of one month. This same report came to me last year when we had Colonel Lee commanding the 97th Group at Salina. The action we took at Salina was to relieve both the wing and group commander and within three months' time we had a pretty good organization going there. I do not think we should relieve Ryan but I am convinced that we should have a more competent officer in command, and we should also have a more competent officer in command of the group itself. I believe Ryan can do that job.

Doubtless there are a number of people on our bases who are overworked when the workload is not spread out upon each one. However, when each man does his share I cannot understand why anyone would be overworked when they have 120 people per airplane. It appears to me that the 509th has got into the crying attitude. It is probable that a good boot on the rear end would be the best thing that could happen to it. I will appreciate it very much if you will see that it gets that treatment.

Sincerely,

CLEMENTS MCMULLEN

FORT WORTH ARMY AIR FIELD
Office of the Commanding Officer
FORT WORTH, TEXAS

28 March 1947

SUBJECT: Violation of Air Traffic Rules

TO: CAA Airman's Branch
ATTN: Mr. W. D. Hill

1. On 26 March the Army Air Field cooperating with Consolidated Aircraft Corporation was in a state of emergency over an anticipated crash landing of the XB-36. The aircraft is classified and photographs were not permitted except those released by Consolidated. All Army Aircraft were held in the air or diverted to Hensley Field during the emergency which included the "Bail Out" of twelve crew men and the landing of the XB-36. It was important that low flying aircraft and unnecessary traffic be kept out of the vicinity of the Airfield.

2. Mr. L. B. Haskins, Jr., (address: 824 Blaylock Street, Dallas, Texas), brought a Luscombe NC1387K from Skyline Airport, Oak Cliff, Dallas, Texas to Army Airfield and without making an attempt to attract the tower operators' attention made a straight-in approach to the landing runway. The tower operator gave the pilot a green light and the pilot landed the Luscombe, parked, and without contacting any army agency left the aircraft and joined the crash equipment convoy stationed at the runway intersection awaiting the crash landing. He was informed that photographs were not permissible by NCO in charge of crash convoy but he stayed with the convoy until the Base Counter Intelligence Officer and the Provost Marshal located him and confiscated his camera. A few minutes later the XB-36 came in for landing and approximately eight (8) minutes later the Luscombe took off against a red light and on the closed runway on which the crash crew was working on the B-36. His take off was over the crash crew. This endangered life and property at a time when all field activity was centered on the salvage of the XB-36 necessitating a large volume of vehicular traffic on the field.

3. When Mr. Haskins was questioned by the Counter Intelligence Officer he gave the fictitious name of George Stacey but on 28 March the Counter Intelligence Officer obtained his real name from a Dallas newspaper and when interviewed by Counter Intelligence and Base Operations Officers he gave the following information.

Plane: Luscombe NC 1387K, registered in his name.

Mission: To secure pictures of the XB-36 for a Dallas newspaper.

Bc. Fr CO, Fort Worth Army Air Field, Fort Worth, Texas to CAA Airman's Branch, ATTN: Mr. W. D. Hill, subj: Violation of Air Traffic Rules, dated 28 March 1947.

Coordination: No attempt was made to secure permission to obtain pictures from either the Army or Consolidated or to land at the Airfield.

CAA License: Commercial license issued 1943 or 1944. He believed the number to be 126785. License was not in his possession.

Point of Departure: Skyline Airport.

Flying Experience: Instructor pilot in civilian schools and extensive private flying.

4. Mr. Haskins stated he made no attempt to secure clearance to land or depart FWAAFLd, did not even see the green light for landing, or in fact did not know where to look for a tower or light. He did not contact army operations or the control tower on his departure. His only desire was to get on the field, get the photographs and depart as inconspicuously as possible.

5. Mr. Haskins stated he had extensive flying experience. However, he exercised poor judgement and violated all control measures necessary to operate under even normal conditions. His failure to observe light signals, contact operations personnel, and his violation of security measures could have seriously handicapped rescue operations had the emergency proved as serious as we had anticipated. His violations of security measures are being handled by Counter Intelligence Officers of this station.

6. His flying violations are considered sufficiently serious to merit my asking that his case be reviewed by your office as to the merits of his retaining his CAA license to operate his aircraft.

Dear Chief:

Inclosed herewith is the 1st Air Transport Unit report you requested. I hope it serves the purpose. We carefully omitted any information which was not factual and perhaps would sound like B-ache. However, I would like to recall your attention to a few contributing factors which you may or may not care to use.

Three factors which make it extremely difficult for the Air Transport Unit to operate on an air line standard are the excessive delays at pick-up stations where frequently loading personnel are off duty or simply not available to give the loading of our aircraft first priority. This happens at all depots, who are also short handed at this time and who operate on a peace time schedule being shut tight on the week-end and after duty hours. This item greatly curtails efficient operation. The second factor is that, although we are presently working our ATU maintenance people at night and on the week-end, these people should be given some consideration for time off. In attempting to give these men time off, we immediately become incomparable with air line operation. The air line operation have round the clock maintenance with different crews seven days a week. We do not have the people. The third and possibly most important factor of all is that no aircraft can be flown at a high rate unless they operate on a standard schedule day in and day out. This fact was borne out throughout the war in the Training Command where aircraft were flown at a high rate on a round the clock schedule. If the 1st Air Transport Unit operations are based on a eight hour, five day a week schedule then the figures contained in the attached report show them to be comparable to any air transport operation any where. Along the same trend, the ATU is definitely a special projects organization. Frequently, we make 100 hour inspections way before they are due because an airplane is committed for a flight to Japan or Germany, etc. When they support group movements in Europe, the Caribbean or Japan, after discharging their load they are required to stand by awaiting the completion of the mission as it is uneconomic to return them from other than the Japan flights until the maneuver is completed.

Ltr to General Ramey, dtd 26 May 1947

Some of these items do not appear in the attached report and are nevertheless extremely important in any study on this subject.

SUBJECT: 1st Air Transport Unit

TO: Commanding General
Eighth Air Force
Fort Worth Army Air Field
Fort Worth, Texas

1. In compliance with verbal instructions on 21 May 1947, the following report of activities of the 1st Air Transport Unit is hereby submitted. For the purpose of clarity, this report will be broken down by months, and will include: Personnel assigned, Aircraft assigned, work accomplished and problems encountered during the period. These statistics will be supplemented by inclosed charts and graphs.

a. The 1st Air Transport Unit was activated on 3 August 1946, assigned to the 58th Bombardment Wing, TH, Fifteenth Air Force and stationed at Roswell Army Air Field, Roswell, New Mexico. Personnel and aircraft were assigned from the 320th Troop Carrier Squadron, a part of the 509th Composite Group, TH. Both personnel and aircraft had recently taken part in the Crossroads Operation, setting a record for sustained overwater operation, hauling 10,372 passengers 16,302,904 passenger miles and 1,416,038 pounds of freight, 1,142,764 freight miles in air lift support of the Atomic Bomb Test, without a single accident. During the period 3 August 1946 to 31 August 1946 the enlisted strength of the Unit averaged 60 of whom approximately 40 were maintenance men to maintain the 13 assigned C-54 aircraft. The aircraft were flown 51 hours hauling 360 passengers and 34,317 pounds of freight on continental flights.

b. In September the average enlisted strength of the unit was 116 of whom approximately 70 were maintenance men. One C-54-B aircraft was placed in commission for surplus status and flown to Augusta, Georgia, departing the last of the month. The remaining C-54-B aircraft flew 386 hours hauling 383 passengers and 144,435 pounds of freight on continental flights. A request for DIR and "Stoner-Wudge" in Depot on remaining aircraft was denied due to over load of work on Depot at that time. A request for new aircraft or aircraft recently out of DIR was also denied.

c. During October the average enlisted strength was 112 of whom approximately 58 were maintenance men. Contemplating support of the 37th Bomb Group, TH, at Salina, Kansas, on its secret mission, 11 C-54 aircraft were received on loan to this Unit from Oklahoma City Overhaul Depot and

War to ... 8th AF, dtd 26 May 47, Subj: 1st Air Transport Unit

Grand Island AAF, Nebraska, on 22 October. Since insufficient maintenance men were on hand to maintain the 23 C-54's, 6 of the original 12 were pickled and placed in Section "C" Storage at IAAF. In October the aircraft were flown 703 hours hauling 341 passengers and 331,325 pounds of freight on continental flights.

d. On 1 November 1946 the 1st Air Transport Unit was relieved from assignment to the Fifteenth Air Force and assigned to the Eighth Air Force without change of station. The average enlisted strength during November was 106 of whom approximately 58 were maintenance personnel. Notification was received about the middle of November that the Secret Mission in support of the 97th Bomb Group, VII had been cancelled. Further that the 11 C-54's on loan from AMC were to be returned. Notification was also received that the 3 C-4 aircraft in Section "C" Storage were to be taken out of storage and all possible work accomplished to place them in flyable condition. Seven (7) of the C-54's on loan were returned and two (2) were withdrawn from storage and started through a 1,000 hour inspection. In November the aircraft were flown 818 hours hauling 1411 passengers and 409,815 pounds of freight on continental and overseas flights. Two (2) aircraft were dispatched to Germany in support of the 43rd Bomb Group, VII, and 2 aircraft were dispatched to Panama in support of the 509th Bomb Group, VII.

e. During December enlisted personnel began arriving on the program to man the 1st Air Transport Unit. The enlisted strength averaged 145 of whom approximately 75 were maintenance personnel. One (1) additional C-54 was withdrawn from Section "C" Storage and started through a 1,000 hour inspection and the 1,000 hour inspection on two (2) previously started continued. Parts for C-54 aircraft became very critical and difficult to obtain. Two of the remaining C-54's on loan were returned to Fairfield, Wisconsin. During December the available aircraft flew 386 hours hauling 1,398 passengers and 409,815 pounds of freight on continental and overseas flights. The overseas flights were a continuation of the mission to Germany previously reported.

f. Personnel continued to arrive during January and the average enlisted strength increased to 175 of whom approximately 36 were maintenance personnel. One (1) C-54 on loan was returned to Fairfield Wisconsin on 2 January 1947 and the 3 remaining C-54's in storage were withdrawn and started through 1,000 hour inspections while work continued on the 3 previously started. C-54 parts continued to be critical and all of the aircraft undergoing 1,000 hour inspections were ACIP. The remaining C-54 on loan was grounded for transfer and did not fly. The six C-54's available for flight flew 126 hours hauling 332 passengers and 243,032 pounds of freight on continental flights.

Ltr to CG, 8th AF, dtd 26 May 47. Subj: 1st Air Transport Unit

g. The average enlisted strength in February increased to 205 of whom approximately 104 were maintenance personnel. The remaining C-54 on loan was still grounded for transfer and departed for OCAMA on 27 February. The 1,000 hour inspection continued on the six C-54's, parts remained critical and they were all AOCF. The available six C-54's were flown 174 hours hauling 391 passengers and 493,397 pounds of freight on continental and overseas flights. One C-54 was dispatched to Puerto Rico in support of the 509th Bomb Group, VII. During this month 8 aircraft were lost to OCAMA for "Stoner-Mudge" Process.

h. During March the average enlisted strength was 212 of whom 93 were maintenance personnel. Five (5) of the 1,000 hour inspections were completed in March and the supply problem of C-54 parts was greatly alleviated, however, three (3) C-54's remained AOCF. The available aircraft were flown 314 hours hauling 961 passengers and 693,164 pounds of freight on continental and overseas flights. Three flights were made to Puerto Rico in support of the 509th Bomb Group, VII.

i. In April the average enlisted personnel assigned was 186 of whom 93 were maintenance personnel. Five (5) C-54's were received from OCAMA in contemplation of the Eighth Air Force Groups missions to the Far East. One C-54 remained AOCF throughout the month. The available aircraft were flown 443 hours hauling 805 passengers and 439,287 pounds of freight on continental and overseas flights. One (1) C-54 was dispatched to Alaska in support of the 49th Wing, Fifteenth Air Force. One (1) C-54 made a flight to Puerto Rico in support of the 509th Bomb Group, VII. Four (4) C-54's were dispatched to Japan on 22 April in support of the 7th Bomb Group, VII.

j. During the month of May the enlisted strength has average 198 of whom 103 are maintenance personnel. Four (4) C-54's were received from OCAMA out of "Stoner-Mudge" Process on 21 May and one (1) was received on 23 May. One C-54 remained AOCF through 12 May. Available aircraft have been flown 461 hours hauling 873 passengers and 193,552 pounds of freight. The above figures do not include: One C-54 dispatched to Germany in support of the 97th Bomb Group, VII, on 16 May 1947, one C-54 dispatched to Greenland on 17 May 1947, and four (4) C-54's dispatched to Japan in support of the 43rd Bomb Group, VII, on 24 May 1947.

k. The statistics in the above paragraphs of maintenance personnel assigned does not reflect a true picture in that many of these men were not qualified but working in OJT status.

Ltr to CG, 3th AF, dtd 26 May 47, Subj: 1st Air Transport Unit

1. The 1st Air Transport Unit from activation to date has flown 3,689 hours hauling 3,455 passengers 5,694,447 passengers miles and 3,139,816 pounds of freight 1,119,605 freight ton miles without major or minor aircraft accident.

2. In accomplishing the above it should be noted that the turnover of aircraft assigned or loan and aircraft transferred necessitated acceptance checks and 100 hour inspections prior to transfer. This and numerous Technical Order compliances on aircraft that were possessed only for short periods of time made the maintenance work load during this period far in excess of normal operations.

Dear General McMullen:

Inclosed is the report on the activities of the 1st Air Transport Unit of which I spoke to you the other day. This report is definitely not an attempt to white-wash or alibi the activities of this organization. It is merely an attempt to acquaint you with the entire history again with no idea of trying to alibi for the unit. I would like to point out some difficulties encountered in that type of operation that you probably are more familiar with than I. Three factors make it difficult for the ATU to operate on an air line standard. These are: excessive delays at pick-up stations where loading personnel are off duty or not available to give the loading of our aircraft necessary priority. Depots with which we operate are short-handed and definitely operate on a peace time standard as regards overtime and week-end operation. The second factor - although we are presently working our ATU maintenance people at nights and on the week-ends, these people do have to be given some consideration for time off. In attempting to give these men time off, we immediately become incomparable with air line operation. Air line operation, of course, has round the clock maintenance schedules with ~~défférentes~~ crews; and, we do not have the people for that sort of operation. The third factor is probably the most important. Aircraft flown on an irregular highly changeable schedule will necessarily operate at a very lower time standard than a schedule day in and day out operation. I believe if the 1st ATU operations were placed on an eight hour five day week schedule, then the figures contained in the attached report would show them to be comparable to any Air Transport operation.

Along the same trend, the ATU is definitely a special projects operation. Frequently, we have to make one hundred hour inspection long before they are due because an airplane is committed for a flight to Japan, Germany, or some place where maintenance facilities are apt to be considerably restricted. Also, when they support group movements in Europe, the Caribbean, or Japan, after discharging their load, they are required to stand by awaiting the completion of the mission since it would be uneconomical to return them until a brief maneuver might be completed.

I received a letter from Headquarters, Strategic Air Command, subject: "Disposition of Officer Graduates of Certain AAF Training Courses", dated 9 May 1947, in which it is pointed out that in many instances over-all Air Force needs will necessitate reassignment of the officer to a new station shortly after his return. Due to the officers' qualifications that must be met before officers going to those school are selected, it is requested that we be allowed to nominate such officers as might be required for Air Force needs rather than to have these officers ordered by name.

It is probably poor policy to bring up matters already past or to cry over spilled milk, but, I am inclosing, for your information, Selser's weather briefing and flight plan for his participation in the training maneuver of 16 May 1947. Again, I am not attempting to alibi or to convince General Kenney we were right, because obviously if he didn't get there he couldn't have been right. I would, however, like to point out that, in his defense, I believe I would have made the same error that he did. Normally, I should think that a forty-five minute allowance of predicted conditions would be sufficient. We have, however, arrived at a very definite agreement that henceforth and forever, we will allow every minute of time in excess that gas load allows us to allow, which was not done in this instance. I should at least like to have you maintain your faith in Bromo's competence, and in my ability to plan and lead a review.

Sincerely,

Incls:

Roger Ramsey

Dear General McMullen:

I have intended to mention to you several times since General Rawling's visit that we considered his visit most instructive and although we thought we were doing fairly well in a comparative cost analysis we found (at least I did in particular) that we didn't know too much about the subject. I was unable to explain without considerable after-study several things that I knew at the time were wrong as you will note from the inclosed letter to General Rawlings. He asked me to send him what the actual story was when I found it out.

As I told you in our telephone conversation yesterday, the B-29 airplane situation is apparently very bad since they are now a month behind in their supply and no immediate solution seems forthcoming.

Hutchinson called after you called yesterday and stated that in the telephone conversation with Roswell they found out a great many things other than morning reports that would have to be changed and that USAF had agreed to our solution. Certainly glad that they decided to do so because the change would have been almost disastrous and physical compliance with their original order would have been extremely difficult. What, of course, we should have done was to have Air Forces delay their original order for us.

General, I would sure be interested in knowing what General Kenney worked out with General McNerney on the gasoline situation. I certainly am worried about that because I am very much afraid that if the situation continues that we are leading into an episode of either grounding planes or fires in the air, or both. Incidentally, we are submitting some projects now toward revision of aqua systems in order to meet the possibility of being supplied with various octane rating gasolines.

I am having a meeting today of all Group Commanders and their A-1's and A-3's with the idea in mind of coming to some immediate conclusion on stopping accidents and of standardizing our reporting on various A-1 forms. The group figures, our figures and SAC's figures are at wide variance in a great many specialties. For example, SAC's figures on Navigators show a great many more Navigators than we have. Probably a large percentage of this variance is due to some of the bases reporting grounded Navigators, some Navigators who are away at school, some Navigators whose MOS has been changed to that of pilot, etc. I am sure that by a complete standardization of reports we can all get together on our figures.

I promised Hutchinson an explanation of why AMC complained to SAC that we were not picking up our P-51's when we were notified. The confusion in that line results from the fact that AMC gives SAC a seventy-two (72) hour notification of readiness before a test flight is flown on the planes. If the test flight shows something radically wrong with the plane that will require several days to repair the crew is generally sent back to its home base and no further notification of readiness is ever given. That is happening in a fairly large percentage of the cases and we are attempting to correct it by leaving an officer at the depot to ride herd on those airplanes.

Jennings and Catton got away today for a visit to Kwajalein and Guam and should come back with some very necessary information. I hope they settle on the date proposition very soon in Washington.

Sincerely,

Dear General McMullen:

I have just completed a tour of the bases and there are a few things I would like to mention to you, largely for your information rather than a request for help.

First, I found Selser's personnel situation pretty serious in that he has had to work his already depleted personnel over weekends and at night during a considerable portion of this month, and is now faced with the problem of denying them leave before the end of this leave year. Of course, I told Selser that he should have insisted that they take leave earlier; but, at the same time, I feel like I am going to have to help him out by giving him some personnel from Fort Worth. It is also reasonable, I think, to allow him some little let down in work expected during the month of June. The morale at his place is high and his men take a great deal of pride in the achievements, but they really have been somewhat overworked; and, unless we did something about it would probably cause a lowering of morale.

At Blanchard's place, I found Blanchard very much up in the air over what was apparently three iron-clad instances of sabotage. One involving a shorting out of a resistor from the inverter to the main Radar Unit. Another was the soiling of a fuse with the copper sorter and another the shearing of a high resistance cable beneath the floor boards in the Radar Room. Of course, one way you look at it - it was apparently sabotage; but, after we got hold of the maintenance people who had those airplanes in Kwajalein and questioned them at length about some of the methods that were used and to insure maximum effort on the mission, it was very easily explained in my opinion. We also found that due to very restricted and somewhat questionable radar maintenance, crew chiefs had adopted some methods that, while they insured immediate operations, were pretty drastic insofar as the continuous function of airplanes was concerned. I told Blanchard to clamp down on any rumors about sabotage and other than a thorough check on all of his airplanes to do nothing further about it. I have requested a couple of under-cover men to be assigned there. As a matter of fact, General, I think the CIC that is presently assigned to Blanchard is causing more trouble with his continual suspicions than he is doing good.

Wheless's outfit is continually improving and is also by far the best off in stronger personnel standpoint. The outfit seems to have gotten under way well enough on the Japan flight and should reach their destination at the proper time without too much trouble.

I had in mind going out to Wendover during the first part of Selser's maneuvers - just for a casual check on conditions there and what his outfit is doing.

I have General Kenney's letter on public relations and will, of course, follow his suggestions. I am of the opinion that we are following his ideas already a lot closer than he realizes. I don't know whether General Kenney expects an answer to his letter or not and would like to follow your advice in the matter.

Sincerely,

Roger Ramey

Mission Report - 8AF Field Order #25, 4 July 1947
Aerial Review over Vicksburg, Mississippi

Commanding General
Eighth Air Force
Fort Worth, Texas

1. MISSION REPORT:

a. NARRATIVE:

- (1) On 4 July 47 twenty-five (25) B-29 aircraft, twenty (20) of the 509th Bomb Group (VH) and five (5) of the 43rd Bomb Group (VH), passed in review, in formation of squadron Vees, at 154 feet over Vicksburg, Mississippi, in commemoration of Independence Day and in honor of General Eisenhower, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army, at 1600Z, 1615Z, and 1630Z, as ordered by SAC Field Order #15, dated 1700Z, 20 June 47 and 8AF Field Order #25, dated 2131, 27 June 47.
- (2) Twenty-seven (27) aircraft were ordered to fly this mission. Twenty-nine (29) aircraft, including three (3) spares, were scheduled by the 509th Bomb Group Operations Order #29, dated 2 July 47, to carry out the mission. The first aircraft of the lead squadron took off from Roswell Army Air Field at 0415 MST, 4 July 47, and proceeded individually to the assembly points as specified in the 8AF Field Order #25: First squadron, Monroe, Louisiana; Second squadron, Bernice, Louisiana; Third Squadron, Hedge, Louisiana. Group assembly was accomplished at 2000 feet altitude over Monroe, Louisiana. The formation departed Monroe direct for Vicksburg, Mississippi at 1537Z. The formation completed three (3) passes over Vicksburg as scheduled. Upon completion of the third pass the formation departed Vicksburg enroute for Little Rock, Arkansas. Upon passing Little Rock the formation turned on aheading for Tulsa, Oklahoma, at which point the flight proceeded to Oklahoma City, thence to Amarillo, Texas, where the formation turned on course for Roswell, New Mexico. Extreme turbulence from ground heating was encountered at times enroute, and particularly between Amarillo and Roswell. The formation passed over the city of Roswell and proceeded direct to Roswell Army Air Field, where a formation landing was executed. The last aircraft was on the ground at 2145Z.
