Annual Christmas Coloring Contest

Patty Broadhead, who neatly clipped her delicately crayoned pictures and mounted them on white cardboard won the grand prize of three tickets to the movies in the Breeze's annual Christmas coloring contest.

Jackie Kocher and Mary Carole Jolley tied for second place, and each won two tickets.

A special prize of two tickets, one each to John and Robert Miller, 12 and 9 years old, is being awarded for especially good work as a brother team.

Tickets can be picked up at the Breeze office any time after publication of today's paper. Each is good for admission of one child to Keller's Theatre hede or to the Grand in Westfield.

Judging the contest was extremely difficult and many entries were nosed out of first and second places by only a hair. Honorable mention in the 9 to 12-year-old class goes to the following, each of whom will be awarded one ticket.

Judith Shank, Rosemarie Seene, Carol Kocher, Carol Turner, Alvin Johnston, Elinor Hoyer, James Fall, Marjorie Tresler, Jane Campbell, Betty Perrine, Donnie Kocher, Suzanne Swoap and Lucy Boll.

Eugene Brown Wins Three

Eugene Brown walked off with the first prize of three tickets in the 5 to 8-year-old class. Second place of two tickets each will be awarded to another tie: Gayle Kidder and Susan Dohanic.

Honorable mention (one ticket each) goes to:

Denny Weinheimer, Philip Seene Jr., Valentine Lukas, Bill Campbell, Michael Dohanic, Suzanne Lukas, Lester Miller, Bonnie Kocher, Johnny Swoap, and Harriet Langer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilkinson Confirm Sighting of Space Ship over North East

Two more solid North East citizens report seeing the space ship first reported to the Breeze by Lucy Dawson, two weeks ago.

Mrs. Dawson had seen the phenomena twice — Saturday and Sunday nights, Dec. 4 and 5. She described it as glowing a brilliant orange with two rows of windows ranged like postage stamps. A lot of people scoffed until a substantial number of unrelated observers also reported the ship.

Most recent reports come from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilkinson who were driving home along N. Pearl St. Sunday night between 11 and 12—the time Lucy made her second sighting.

Mrs. Wilkinson's description tallied with Lucy's. At the time, however, she put the craft down as a ship, although it was brighter than any she had ever seen.

She remarked to Mr. Wilkinson that it certainly had "lots of windows".

The Breeze had notified the Air Force officer whose business it is to check "flying saucer" reports. This newspaper sincerely solicits all information about this one, and the names of other persons who have seen it.

Father Robert A. Boelcke, astronomer at St. Mary's College who has expressed an avid interest in the matter, said that space ship authorities pretty well agreed that the things, if they really existed, were operated by remote control.

Half jokingly, he suggested that the missile might have been sent to reconnoiter the rooftop of his observatory, which gleams like the nose of a sliver rocket by the light of the moon.

1. This Center had very little additional information concerning the specific sighting by Mrs. [redacted]; however, the case was compared to past incidents with similar circumstances of locality, lighting and weather conditions. As a result of utilizing this comparison media, as well as a careful review of the data in the report, it was decided that the sighting was a PROBABLE REFLECTION of a known object, which assumed the particular shape described by the source.

2. Upon examination of the "U.S. Air Technical Information Sheet" completed by the source, it was noted that under Item 6-G, the statement, "G. Moon was out and a mist" conflicted slightly with Items 34.1 - b and 34.3 - a and b. However, it is a known fact that conditions of either haze or mist over water, are inducive to possibility of a reflection phenomena occurring.

3. As to the identity of the object involved, two possible explanations exist. It could have been a reflection of a ship on Lake Erie or a reflection from an observation dome. This latter possibility results from a statement made in one of the newspapers inclosed with the report. In it [redacted] Astronomer [redacted] Northeast, Pa., stated "half jokingly, that the missile might have been sent to reconnoiter the rooftop of his observatory, which gleams like the nose of a silver rocket by the light of the moon." It must be considered that the object could have been a reflection of the observatory dome depending upon the exact location of the observatory with respect to the source's home.

Illness Delays Frank Finn's Appearance Before Grand Jury

Frank Finn, who was charged with taking an ax to his nephew, Ralph Finn in December, is still in the Warren State Hospital by court order, awaiting trial. The Erie Grand Jury found a true bill against Frank.

Both Ralph and arresting patrolman James Pace were summoned to testify in closed confidential session against Frank. Ralph told his story of the Sunday morning (Dec. 5) assault, and Mr. Pace presented the bloody ax.

Frank himself was deemed too sick to travel. He may appear at Quarter Sessions Court in May or September. He could end the whole proceedings with a plea of guilty.

Names were called of Albert Montgomery, who found Ralph semi-conscious in the snow, and Lee Truxell, from whom Frank tried to borrow a shot gun, supposedly to finish off the job. Neither one, however, had been supoenaed, it was discovered.

Normal procedure is to present the Commonwealth's side of the story only at a Grand Jury hearing.

Mrs. Guy Morton called to say she would bring the Club Calendar idea up at Grange meeting this week. State Aid Probable for New School

North East High School will probably receive state aid for its proposed annex, Congressman Paige Varner predicted this week.

He said the crowded school conditions all over the state should cause the public school debt limitation to be raised from 425 million dollars to about 800 million. North East stands high on the priority list for when the lid is taken off.

Mr. Varner said that action should be forthcoming within the next few months.

rough Council May Build Both Water Line and Reservoir

Borough Council may start building both water line and reservoir, it was decided at the meeting Monday night.

Long a sore spot between Water Commissioner Charles Luke and Mayor H. F. Eaton, the line vs. reserve argument came close to boiling over at Council's regular meeting. An 11th hour suggestion by Councilman Vinton Black set matters flowing fairly smoothly again.

Mr. Luke has contended that the WPA line which catches the water from Smith and Bull Reservoirs and carries it to the filter plant is faulty and should be replaced.

The Mayor has just as sincerely insisted that North East needed a greater water reserve before it installed any more plumbing to bring it in. The Luke plan, he said, was putting the cart before the horse. A lot of the derogatory remarks about the line he said, were simply "poohbah."

According to estimates of Hill and Hill, Borough engineers, a new 10-million-gallon-a-day line would cost about $142,000. Council President Gilbert Garnow figured that this amount could be paid off in five years. A 1948 estimate put cost of repairs of the mile and a half long old line $60,000. The present line carries something less than two and a half million gallons daily.

Since five years may be too long a time to wait before work on a reservoir is started, it was proposed to make inquiries in this direction at the same time. To get anywhere one needed both a cart and horse, Council decided.

The only practical site for a new reservoir, it was said, was in New York State. Previously, Albany officials indicated to the mayor and James Bryan, Borough solicitor, that New York State would willingly let North East catch its water there.

Council's first positive step in this direction was to authorize Mr. Bryan to seek written permission from the New York State Commission of Conservation. Mr. Garnow hoped to get a survey of property that would be effected by the reservoir.

Hill and Hill said a preliminary estimate would put the cost of building a reservoir at about $235,000. Dredging out existing re-

Miss Felmeden Is Only as Old As She Feels

Miss Louisa Felmeden, who's young enough at heart never to miss a circus program on television, will celebrate her 90th birthday on Valentine's Day.

Born in Hitzerode, Hessen, Germany, she came to this country as a young lady. Through the years in North East she became known as "Tante Louisa' to all who knew her.

She makes her home with a sister, Mrs. R. J. Felmeden at 48 N. Pearl St. A brother, Gustav, still lives in Germany. The late E. B. Felmeden of North East was also a brother.

Only as old as he feels, Aunt Louisa reads and sews and knits, and is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. She helped several of the German sisters at neighboring St. Mary's learn the language of this country.

Her first greeting this year, in fact, came back from one of them in Germany the other day. Tante Louisa was the first person the sister ever knew, she said, whom she could have the pleasure of wishing a happy 90th birthday.

Miss Felmeden Is Only as Old As She Feels

Miss Louisa Felmeden, who's young enough at heart never to miss a circus program on television, will celebrate her 90th birthday on Valentine's Day.

Born in Hitzerode, Hessen, Germany, she came to this country as a young lady. Through the years in North East she became known as "Tante Louisa" to all who knew her.

She makes her home with a sister, Mrs. R. J. Feldmeden at 48 N. Pearl St. A brother, Gustav, still lives in Germany. The late E. B. Felmeden of North East was also a brother.

Only as old as he feels, Aunt Louisa reads and sews and knits, and is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. She helped several of the German sisters at neighboring St. Mary's learn the language of this country.

Her first greeting this year, in fact, came back from one of them in Germany the other day. Tante Louisa was the first person the sister ever knew, she said, whom she could have the pleasure of wishing a happy 90th birthday.

remarks about the line ,he said, were simply "poohbah."

According to estimates of Hill and Hill, Borough engineers, a new 10-million-gallon-a-day line would cost about $142,000. Council President Gilbert Garnow figured that this amount could be paid off in five years. A 1948 estimate put cost of repairs of the mile and a half long old line $60,000. The present line carries something less than two and a half million gallons daily.

Since five years may be too long a time to wait before work on a reservoir is started, it was proposed to make inquiries in this direction at the same time. To get anywhere one needed both a cart and horse, Council decided.

The only practical site for a new reservoir, it was said, was in New York State. Previously, Albany officials indicated to the mayor and James Bryan, Borough solicitor, that New York State would willingly let North East catch its water there.

Council's first positive step in this direction was to authorize Mr. Bryan to seek written permission from the New York State Commission of Conservation. Mr. Garnow hoped to get a survey of property that would be effected by the reservoir.

Hill and Hill said a preliminary estimate would put the cost of building a reservoir at about $235,000. Dredging out existing reservoirs would be extremely costly as well as nigh impossible.

Herds of Deer Gathering South Of North East

Herds of deer are beginning to gather south of town. They've been seen in numbers from five to 40 grazing over the grasses of the flats near Gulf, Remington and other roads.

Pano Andrews, Chestnut Grove, told the Breeze that the deer come out about this time each year, and it usually marks the break-up of the last cold spell.

Old timers up that way say that the deep heavy snows further south may send the deer this way. It is thought that the apple orchards here may be another attraction for them. In previous years they have sometimes been seen in numbers as large as two or three hundred.

"Every little girl gets a doll, Mr. Leuschner said, "and every little boy a couple of toys." Family baskets also include games that all can enjoy, and candy and fruit donated by the American

Residents Confirm Sighting of Space Ship Over North East Recently

North East's space ship by a lady in her E. Lake Rd. home nearly jerk- moorings as she knelt to turn off a lamp at 1:40, Sunday morning, Dec. having an orange glowing globe at top and two rows of blazing windows amps around its sides. (Reconstruction by the Breeze)

Sighting of North East's controversial space ship was pretty well confirmed this week by some of the community's most reliable residents.

The ship was first reported to the Breeze by Mrs. Harold Dawson, the Dill Park lady of last week's story. Since then several persons have substantiated her story.

Father Robert A. Boelcke, astronomy professor at St. Mary's College, told the Breeze that the description of the wierd missile tallied perfectly with previous descriptions now on file with the United States Air Force.

The Breeze quickly notified the Pentagon of Mrs. Dawson's discovery.

The space ship was sighted by her twice on Sunday, Dec. 5, the first time at 1:40 A. M. after her radio began to pulse. At first she thought the orange glowing craft over the lake was a fish-tug on fire. Later she realized that a tug would be wallowing on the rough water, but this ship was hanging still above it.

Literally scared stiff, she watched the thing for nearly 10 minutes until it disappeared in the west.

At a few minutes before 2 A. M. the same night Carlton and Jeannette Baker, who live on the Standish Road west of North East, got up to fix a faulty hot water heater. There in the sky over the lake was an orange glow, which, Mr. Baker said, looked as though it might be hovering over the fields nearby. They too saw it disappear

The space ship was sighted by her twice on Sunday, Dec. 5, the first time at 1:40 A. M. after her radio began to pulse. At first she thought the orange glowing craft over the lake was a fish-tug on fire. Later she realized that a tug would be wallowing on the rough water, but this ship was hanging still above it.

Literally scared stiff, she watched the thing for nearly 10 minutes until it disappeared in the west.

At a few minutes before 2 A. M. the same night Carlton and Jeannette Baker, who live on the Standish Road west of North East, got up to fix a faulty hot water heater. There in the sky over the lake was an orange glow, which, Mr. Baker said, looked as though it might be hovering over the fields nearby. They too saw it disappear

Jaycee Christmas Movies for All Children Are To Flicker at Keller's Thursday P. M.

On Thursday, Dec. 23, the North East Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold their third annual free Christmas movie for children at Keller's Theater at 2 P. M. Many cartoons plus a full length feature movie will be shown.

Seats will be claimed on a first come first served basis. Children will line up forming two lines, one going north and the other south, on Lake St., in front of the theater. This will allow children to file into the theater in an orderly fashion when the doors are opened at 1:45 P. M.

All children up to 15 years of age are invited to attend. It is suggested that pre-school age children be accompanied by a parent or an older child due to the capacity crowd expected.

During the nearly two hours of entertainment mothers will have a last minute opportunity to make Christmas purchases or wrap juniors or sisters presents while the children are in the theater.

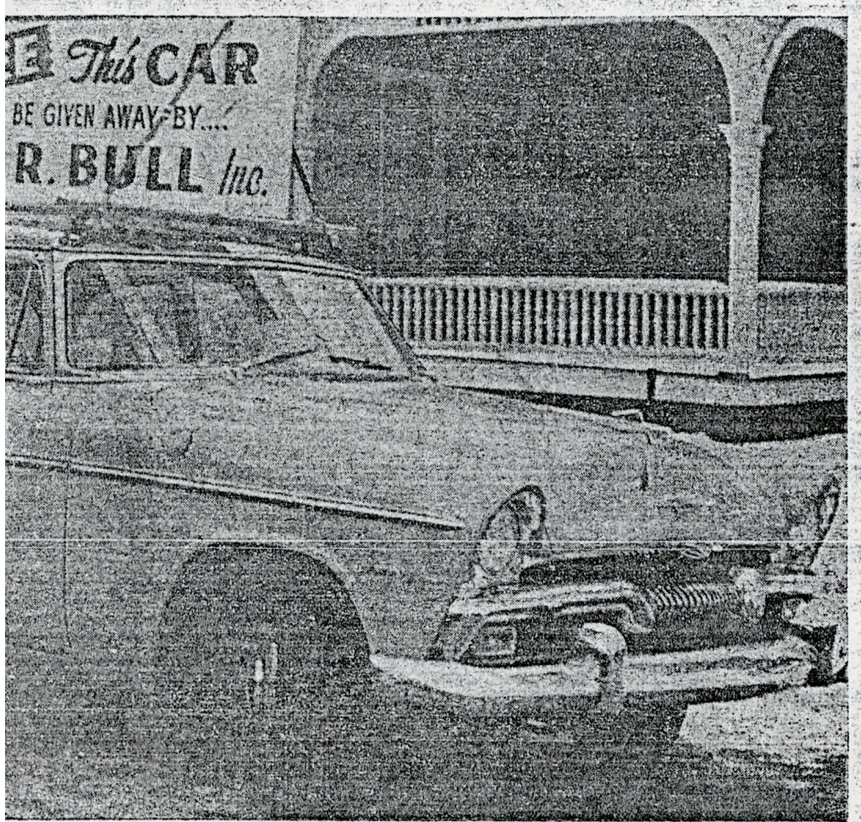

Blair McCord is committee chairman of the Jaycees Christmas movie; Matt Hamilton, Geo. Toney and H. Allen will assist.

I wish to thank all my friends and relatives for the flowers, cards, and gifts I received while I was in the hospital and since I've been home.

The Bakers' description, given before they knew of Mrs. Dawson's experience, also tallied with the usual conduct of recorded so-called "flying saucers." The location of their house, almost a mile from the lake, precludes the possibility of its being any boat on the lake.

Mrs. B. R. Carr on the W. Lake Rd. happened to be up at the same time of night and she too noticed the bright orange object over the lake. At first she dismissed it as a giant conflagration on the Canadian side of the water.

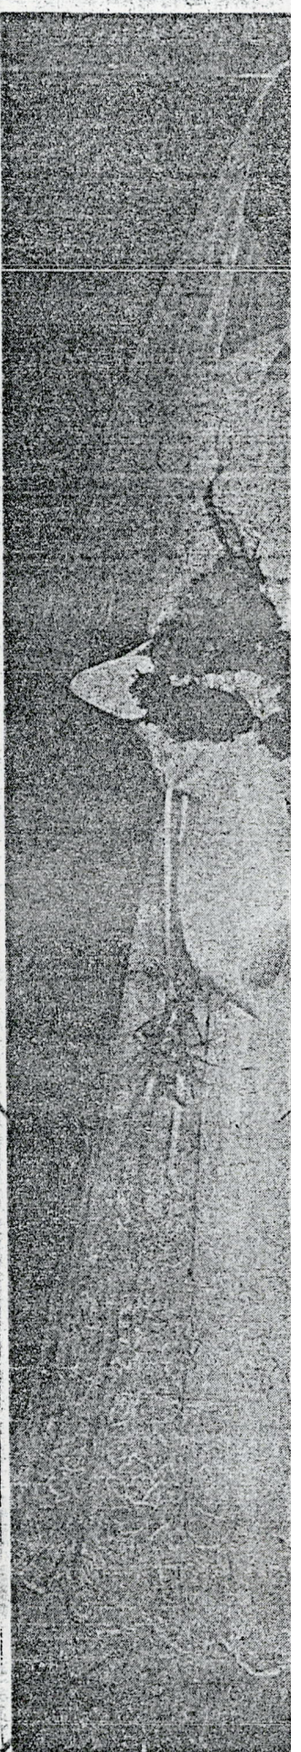

Sarah McQuitty, E. Middle Rd., described it as a "harvest moon" —but the moon was not yet full and was floating behind clouds in another part of the sky.

Father Boelcke said that the Air Force, which still withholds secret information on the missiles it has tracked down lest the public be alarmed, has clocked their flight at 9,000 miles an hour, making travel from space through airless atmosphere a good probability.

Mrs. Dawson inspected the beach below her house on the morning after, but nothing extraordinary was found.

Larry Hammond and a friend from Dartmouth were driving through the wilds of Wyoming one summer vacation when they decided to stop by a mountain stream and take a bath.

Upon finding that the cool, clear water was that of a melting mountain of snow, the boys gave up this project in favor of a nap on the bank. Larry woke a short time later to find two horsemen standing over him.

The older man, in his eighties and wearing a long grey beard, turned out to be the son-in-law of Sitting Bull.

Mr Hammond was reminded of the experience this week when

A space ship hovered over North East Saturday and Sunday, the Breeze learned this week.

After its two visits here, it was said, the strange craft zoomed away into the clouds. A thoroughly reliable and level Breeze correspondent, who wanted to remain nameless, faithfully reported the incident.

At 20 minutes to 2 Sunday morning she knelt on the maple chair in her home overlooking the lake at Dill Park to turn out the light. She had returned from bowling in Erie a little earlier and was reading the paper before going to bed. At first glance out the window she thought she was watching a boat in distress coming in to shore.

The object resembled a fish tug, which looked to be much nearer the beach than one normally drifts, closer even than private fishing boats anchor. Because of the brilliant orange light radiating from it, the lady thought it was

Lizzie Borden took an ax
And gave her mother 40 whacks
When the job was nicely done
She gave her father 41.

This grim, oft-quote little jingle of a generation ago was revived for North East, when Frank Finn allegedly picked up a double bladed ax Sunday noon and attacked his nephew Ralph Finn with it. Fortunately for both Finns, Ralph received medical care in time to save his life. Frank's hearing takes place today.

Salvation came for Ralph when two little boys saw him stumble bleeding out of Frank Finn's S. Washington St. home and fall into the snow. Arnold Lafferty called

Tough Situation For Parking to Remain Tough

Councilman Donald Swoap, who said he had been reading the Letters to the Editor of the Breeze and agreed that the three parking spaces on Main Street ought to be restored and made the proposal to Borough Council Monday evening.

The Lake and Main St. area was put off limits during the time W. Main St. was closed so that trucks could make the turn from 20 to 89.

"The last I heard," said Mayor H. F. Eaton, "the Street Department simply hadn't got around to paint them back in again."

Council President Gilbert Garnow said that there might be a possibility of letting cars park in one of the spaces. The others were still needed for trucks to turn past—at least that was what Chief of Police Herb Hesling had told him.

"Parking meters," murmured Council Vinton Black under his breath.

Another letter from anotner angry resident, demanding space in front of the Western Auto as well, appears on today's editorial page.

Borough Council May Levy Income Tax To Meet Town's High Standard of Living

North East may levy an income tax.

Borough Council in its Monday evening meeting discussed ways and means to increase the town's revenue to keep up the high standard of living it has become used to. Increasing the millage on real estate is one way. Income tax—which catches more residents — another.

The increase in millage must be sanctioned by the courts. Income tax is up to the discretion of the city fathers.

The Borough's general fund this year took in about $61,000. And additional $10,000 was deemed necessary to meet the year's expenses.

Council President Gilbert Garnow said that the town should be out of debt in two or three years, but a revenue increase would be necessary for maintenance.

on fire.

The glow of a cloud-hidden moon on the water, however, revealed the thing to be suspended six or eight feet above the lake off Orchard Beach. The light it made remained steady and blindingly bright.

"If it had been a fire," the lady said, "such intensity would have been white—not orange."

During the eight or nine minutes that she watched it, the ship skittered east, then west—"so fast that by comparison a jet would be standing still."

Leaves Rosy Glow

By the time she had fetched her field glasses from the bed room where she had been watching some birds with them earlier in the day, the craft had gone. Only a rosy orange glow remained in the clouds of the western sky above the lake.

The lady's husband, when she woke him, naturally accused her of hallucinations, but the next evening any doubts she may have had herself were whisked away.

The ship again hung in the sky about midnight. This time the lady had her glasses ready and got a better look at it.

It still appeared to be about the size and shape of a tug, she said but where the rigging normally projected above deck, the space ship had a low curved glowing dome of orange. Two tiers of square windows were ranged along its sides, she said, like rows of postage stamps.

Realizing that water distances are tricky to figure, she judged it was not more than a mile away. The brilliance of the light, however, made it impossible to make out the details of the ship.

This time it rose gradually straight up and again disappeared. Although the lady sat to watch for it until long afterward, she didn't see it return.

The experience reminded her of another similar sight about a year ago—inexplicable goings-on in the sky.

"Before that," she said, "I never considered that these things really happened."

Like A Greenish Ball

She was returning home along Route 5 from the Snack Bar at 8:20 in the evening, when a greenish silver—"almost" phosphorescent—streak over the lake caused her to pull off on the Orchard Beach Road to make sure her eyes were all right. Thinking the ball-like object might be a re-

I went back into the house and to bed. I again woke my husband and told him about this but he said it was only a freighter moving east on the lake. However, this would be impossible as no freighter could move in that close to shore ~~iwthou~~ without grounding, before it had moved in that close, nor would it be that brilliantly lighted.

I went to bed, but, couldn't sleep. I tossed for some time, then sat up on the edge of the bed and looked up at the sky and again saw a brilliant orange ball which looked like a large harvest moon. This object hung for a few seconds, then with an incredible burst of speed, streaked westward. The folloing evening, about midnight Dec. 5. I was looking out at the approximated spot where I had seen the object on the previous morning. The object was there again, it was the same color and about the same distance over the water (about 7 feet) I immediately got the binoculars and looked the atit. I saw then, what appeared to be a twin row of square ports, over and below a beveled center section. The upper part seemed to be a bow shaped dome that glowed softly orange. The lower part was not visible because of the strong light. I could not view it too long because thelight was so intense that it hurt my eyes. I watched it for abeu two minutes with glasses and about three minutes without on this occasion and then the object raised slowly into the air then streaked into the west.

DATE FEBRUARY 7, 1955

The first time I ever noticed anything unusual in the sky, was in the early fall of 1953. A greenish siver ball hung in the sky over the lake. It moved rather slowly into the east, about 10 miles, stopped, then streaked back into the west. When I arrived home, I related this to my husband. (time; 8:25 P.M.) He was amused. The following evening, a small item in the paper, stated that two people in Ashtabula had reported sighting an object described exactly as the one I saw, at about 8:30 P.M. on the ~~sight~~ same evening.

The second time, was the orange tug shaped object which I took to be a fish tug on fire and in distress. I tried to rouse my husband but he ~~tel~~ told me to get in bed, I went back to the window. The object was still there and I realized that it wasn't flickering as a fire would be nor was it wallowing in the wayes as a vessel of that size would be. I immediately returned to the bedroom to get the binoculars off the window sill to see if I could get a better look at it. When I returned about a half minute later, the object was gone. A few minutes later, I donned a pair of boots and my coat and took a flashlight and went down the steps to the beach ut the light wasn't strong enough to see any distance so
